Chi-X Australia has been closely monitoring the development and impact of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Chi-X trading and support systems, including the Chi-X group regional centres, have proven resilient and fully operational over this time, as they have in many other instances of global volatility and disruption.

Chi-X Australia has enacted local business continuity measures that include the use of multiple off site locations while maintaining seamless trading and operational continuity for our participants and clients.

Chi-X contacts and service channels remain unchanged, including email and phone details.

Chi-X will continue to monitor local and global developments closely, keeping participants and clients informed as our trading and support systems remain fully operational and resilient.
